WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

High pressure over Northern California today will be replaced by a low pressure system moving into the Pacific Northwest. That system will slowly move into the Great Basin over the next couple of days. This will bring several days of cool unsettled weather to the interior. Snow levels will lower down to around 2500 feet Monday morning then rise to near 4000 feet for Tuesday. Widespread precipitation is not expected with this system. Scattered showers mainly over the foothills and mountains with possible thunderstorms Sunday and Monday. Conditions look like they may become windy on Monday as cold air advection moves over Northern California from the backside of the low.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

There are lingering gusty north to northeast winds in the mountains and foothills of the Santa Clarita Valley and Antelope Valley. Gusty northwest winds were also noted along the central coast. Temps across Southern California early this afternoon ranged from the 60s to lower 70s along the coast to the 70s in the valleys and foothills except up to the lower 80s in the warmest Ventura and Los Angeles County valleys. Weak upper ridging will persist over Southern California into this evening. A broad west to west-northwest flow aloft can be expected tonight and sun as a broad upper level trough moves into the Pacific Northwest and far Northern California. The upper trough will move south through Central California Sunday night and into Southern California on Monday while an upper low deepens within the large upper trough and moves east. There will be little in the way of moisture associated with any upcoming systems due to the inland track.

CAL OES MISSIONS

Closed Cal OES Law Missions

2016-LAW-22067, 3/24/16, 1830 hours: A Riverside man who was boating with his four children Sunday, 03/20/16, at Riverside's Lake Perris Recreational Area disappeared into the water after rescuing his 8-year-old son who had fallen overboard. The Riverside County Sheriff's Department dive team has continued to search for the victim. The lake's size, murky waters and uncertainty about where the victim drowned is making the search difficult. The surface area of Lake Perris is about 2,000 acres with a circumference of 12 miles and 65 feet deep. Riverside Sheriff's Department is requesting a K9 Water Cadaver dog to assist with searching and recovering the victim's body on Friday, 03/25/16. CA OES K9 Coordinator located an available SAR K9 Water Cadaver team from Los Angeles who will assist on this mission. Update: At 1830 hours on 03/25/16, Riverside Sheriff's notified the LDO that the search had been completed with negative results. All resources were released with no further assistance needed. Mission Closed.
